After School

Arts and Education Program

After-School Mission

Education is a core aspect of The Cincinnati Black Theatre Company's (CBTC) mission. Throughout our history we have offered unique educational programs that celebrate the artist within all of us. Educational experts are learning more and more about how the arts can play a vital role in personal development. Arts programs have been linked to improvement in academics, positive social behavior, and greater happiness. These studies consistently point out that art programs are most effective when they engage students in small class settings that culminate in completed projects. CBTC's educational programs are conceived on these best practices and the results have been impressive.

After-school Classes & Workshops can enrich the lives of your students.

Choosing CBTC to provide arts and education programs at your school will give your students the amazing opportunity to work with professional musicians, vocalists, dancers, actors, speakers and scholars who are actively engaged in the arts, and willing to share their knowledge, talent and love!

Overview

CBTC offers On-Site After-School enrichment programs in the performing arts around the Greater Cincinnati Area. Our classes can be used in all grade levels.

These classes may be scheduled in five-week sessions or for the entire school year. All programs end with an observation day or performance.

CBTC will:

Encourage youth to be proud of who they are.

Teach students that they are valued and respected.

Promote creativity, and the use of their voices for positive change.

Success!

"Aw man!", "Do we have to?", "Can I sit out?", and "My back hurts." This was the beautiful music that rang through my ears when I informed the 6-8th grade that they would be starting dance tomorrow. The next day came, the "moment of truth". The instructor was very warm and welcoming and some of the kids even knew her from our Spring Break activities the previous year. Their dance instructor got them all up and going and taught them two dances! Wow, the students who were absolutely reluctant informed me that they had a great time. The 6-8th graders now look forward to their weekly dance class. Thanks CBTC!
